Art Unit: 3662

1. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claims 1, 4 and 8 recites the broad recitation "different kinds of noise", and the claims also recite "such as line interference" which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation. In the present instance, claims 2 and 6 recite the broad recitation "sampling at least 2", and the claims also recite "typically 8 channels" which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 4, 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US5418758. The US5418758 reference discloses the utilization of a transmitter unit (52) for use in a system (FIG. 11) for determining the position of objects characterized in that the transmitter unit (52) comprises an ultrasound transducer (53) and also a control unit (51) as recited in claim 4. With regards to claims 6 and 7 the US5418758 reference discloses the utilization of frequency shift keying (see FIG. 4 and the abstract for example)

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US5418758 in combination with US6724688. The US5418758 reference discloses the utilization of a transmitter unit (52) for use in a system (FIG. 11) for determining the position of objects characterized in that the transmitter unit (52) comprises an ultrasound transducer (53) and also a control unit (51). The difference between the US5418758 reference and the claim is that the claim recites the utilization of detecting whether other transmitter units are transmitting signals at the same time as the unit itself intends to perform transmission of signals, that the control unit is adapted to control transmission of ultrasound signals, with the result that this only takes place when no other transmitter units are transmitting signals. The US6724688 reference teaches that it was well known in the art to utilize a microprocessor also controls the A/B channel timing so that two sonar remotes can be used in close proximity to each other with minimal interference (see column 3, line 41-45). It would have been obvious to modify the US5418758 reference to utilize A/B channel timing as motivated by the US6724688 reference to enable the US5418758 system to minimize interference.

6. Claims 11-13 are allowed.
